

LETS PRINT GOD HATES CHARADES

- ☒ Download this pdf.
- ☐ Sneak into a nearby office building with at least 14 sheets of 8.5 x 11 inch paper. You can use the plain paper, but you have that friend... the one who reads backwards through translucent paper. Grab 80lb paper or better, and don't invite that guy next time.
- ☐ Print this PDF making sure the Scale is 100% so you get the right size cards. Dont take too long or they'll catch you. If they do, beg for forgiveness and offer to print them a copy too.
- ☐ Slice up the cards, for legal reasons we recommend safety scissors. They wont cut your 80lb paper, and they wont hurt your delicate digits.
- ☐ Keep 'em safe! They're poker card size, so grab a box of poker cards, toss them and write GOD HATES CHARADES in sharpie. That's what we'd do.

LETS PLAY GOD HATES CHARADES

What is this?

God Hates Charades is a game where players act out vile scenes in the form of thirty seconds act outs.

Players receive points when a guesser guesses their scene. And guessers receive points for guessing.

The first player to seven points wins.

What do I do when its my turn?

When it's your turn, draw two Actor and Scenario cards. Now combine an Actor and Scenario card to make a Scene. You will have fifteen seconds to pick your Scene. Discard the Actor and Scenario card that you didn't choose.

What are the rules?

The only rule is you can't say anything printed on your Actor or Scenario card.

If someone guesses the Scene, you score a point by keeping the Actor card. You give them the Scenario card because they guessed correctly.

If time runs out. Discard both of the cards in your hand. Nobody gets points. God wins.
